

Breach, Glen R

Culver, OR

381st Inf Co D

Culver resident Glen R. Breach died Oct. 27, 2008, at Aspen Court Assisted Living Center at the age of 83.

Mr. Breach was born Oct. 9, 1925, in Great Divide, Colo., to parents John and Frances Louise (Reagor) Breach. He moved with his family from Colorado to Idaho. After graduating from high school, he enlisted in the U.S. Army and served during World War II.

After the war, he worked awhile in Idaho, then in 1950, moved to Central Oregon, where he worked for Macy Farms and also for Ron Bergen.

On March 25, 1955, he and Isabelle Bergen were married at the original First Baptist Church in Madras. They worked a farm of their own for several years. After Mr. Breach retired, he continued to grow potatoes and corn. Several people would stop to buy his produce, and he always enjoyed visiting with them.

Mr. Breach was a member of the Madras Church of Christ. He enjoyed joking with people, playing checkers, fishing, camping, and loved children, who in turn, were taken with him.

Survivors include his wife of 53 years, Isabelle Breach of Culver; children and their spouses, Wayne and Mona Breach of Salem, John and Sonia Breach of Scappoose, Marvin and Tammy Breach of Springfield, Carolyn and Dan Herringshaw of Culver; and Vernon and Kris Breach of Madras; grandchildren, Samuel Herringshaw of Hermiston, Anna Johnson of Culver, Kevin Breach of Virginia, Craig and Derek Breach, both of Salem, and Carly and Maddy Breach of Madras; great-granddaughter, Isabelle Herringshaw of Hermiston; brother, Lawrence Breach of Emmett, Idaho; sisters, Wilma Taulbee and Margaret Crill, both of Napa, Idaho, and Doris Tروف of Burns. He was preceded in death by his parents and two sisters.

Funeral services were held Nov. 3, at the Madras Church of Christ, followed by final disposition at Mount Jefferson Memorial Park in Madras. Arrangements were under the direction of Bel-Air Colonial Funeral Home of Madras.
